

SAN DONATO DI NINEA

Background

San Donato di Ninea, according to the historian Barrio is the ancient city of Ninea.

Initially Philip Bretau's fiefdom, in 1278 it passed to Gerard d'Arena, who kept it until 1310 when was assigned to Philip Tardo of Pistoia. Aggregated to the State of Sanseverino of Bisignano, in 1571 was dismembered to a cadet branch of the family who obtained in 1598 the title of marquis and lately in 1602 the title of duke.

Subsequently it would pass to the Ametranos who held it from 1663 to 1732 and then passed under the dominion of the Cavalcanti who led the fiefdom from 1732 to 1764, therefore to the Sambiasi who held it until the 1780.

In that same year the Campolongo family purchased it, whose heirs kept it until the subversion of feudalism.

The administrative system established by the French by law on 19 January 1807 made it a place, that is a university, in the so called Lungro government.

In the reorganization, arranged by decree 4 of May 1811, establishing the municipalities and districts, the hamlet of Policastrello was assigned to it and was placed under the jurisdiction of Mottafollone.

Due to the new structure, given by the Bourbon by law dated 1 May 1816, it was transferred to the new district of San Sosti. It assumed its current name San Donato di Ninea on 18 February 1864.
